

Telecoms Sector

For the 20 years we've been up and running, the Telecoms sector is one where we've been particularly active, having done hundreds of deals.

Why Roxburgh Milkins?

Our knowledge of the sector, who is doing what within it and our contacts with the key intermediaries means we can deliver legal advice with full market context. We don't just trot out the legals - we give commercial advice, based on a deep understanding of what our clients are trying to achieve.

This has been particularly helpful with our Telecoms clients who are on a buy & build strategy. Understanding the sector, its customs and practices means that we can tailor and deliver services that are completely focused on delivering our clients objectives. We can quickly focus on the real issues involved in purchasing Telecoms businesses, streamlining the process and delivering better value for money.
